Thank you so much for your generosity! I was opening them in my workspace and 3 fellow sailors were watching (ready to pounce after I took my share ;) I said it was from my bass club. And someone said, "Would they know what to send?" I said, "No. 1, they 'rough it' for the tournaments. No, 2, they hold their meetings at the VFW, and have many vets in the group." They crowded closer! I took the spicy jerky, some fruit, of course the astringent (we only have 6 females in our regiment any way) and a few other things such as some baby wipes and dried fruit. I put the BIG bag of dried fruit on the counter for everyone (we have 2 per shift, 3 shifts a day) and it was gone in 1 day! The jerky is always the first to go. They took what they needed and we combined it into 1 box and took down stairs for the regiment. It was all gone in a few minutes. The wipes are great. We need to wipe all surfaces down 3 times a day. We will also be doing massive field day before the official turn over, so I do not think any will be left! We had a massive cleanup last week for ADM Handley and a 3 star General who visited. Many shops had depleted their supply. Tell everyone thank you!

I took the sample size soaps and shampoos. I will be taking them to the chaplain who visits the farther out FOBs. They live in tents without AC, eat MREs 2 times a day. Lunch is BULK MREs the cooks heat up to give them a hot meal. Mail is delivered about once a month, and the exchange is a traveling one that comes around about every 6 weeks! I am going to put some of the sample size perfume in there as well. There are a few women on those FOBs!

BTW, I had not looked at the address, but they were teasing me. I do not know if it was you or my boss (since a b-day package came the same day) but someone put US NAVY SEALS. I am actually a SEABEE! :)
